

CHINESE AMERICAN CONTRIBUTIONS AND RACIAL DISPARITIES: THE PAST, PRESENT, AND FUTURE

Wednesday, October 27, 2021
8:00pm ET / 6:00pm CT / 5:00pm PT
CLICK TO REGISTER

A SPECIAL PRESENTATION CO-ORGANIZED BY:

Committee of 100

University of Michigan Association of Chinese Professors
 Case Western Reserve University Asian Faculty Association
 University at Albany Association of Chinese Professionals
 University of Arizona Faculty of Chinese Heritage Association
 The Association of Chinese Professors at Tulane University
 Iowa State University Chinese Faculty and Staff Association
 University of Georgia Association of Chinese American Professors
 Columbia University Asian faculty Association
 Association of Chinese Professors at Florida State University
 Faculty and Staff of Chinese Heritage Association at University of Notre Dame
 University of Maryland Association of Chinese-American Professors and Scientists

Join us for a special event and discussion with Committee of 100 and Associations of Asian/Chinese American Faculty/Staff at eleven universities on two reports that focus on Chinese Americans and society today. Committee of 100 President, Zhengyu Huang, will present findings from Committee of 100's commissioned research From Foundations to Frontiers: Chinese American Contributions to the Fabric of America, which examines the multifaceted Chinese American contributions across U.S. society for more than 175 years. Mr. Huang's presentation will be followed by legal scholar Andrew Chongseh Kim, who will discuss a recent study, co-led by Committee of 100 and Mr. Kim, which provides empirical data that individuals, particularly those with Chinese or Asian names are disproportionately and adversely impacted under the Economic Espionage Act and China Initiative.